

Once a child member of the St. Johnland Orphanage, King Pedlar over the years has woven himself into the fabric of Kings Park. A Navy veteran, a Kings Park State Hospital worker, a bus driver for the Kings Park School District, and a long time member of the American Legion, King has tied it all together by attaching himself to the Kings Park Heritage Museum. His relationship with the Museum has cultivated his numerous artistic talents. His camera has recorded Kings Park activities; his video experiences have produced DVDs depicting stories of Kings Park heritage. We all have roles in life; King Peddlar just may be the recorder of the tribe.
