

Orphan brought to Kings Park at age five, dropped out of high school in 10th grade, went into the military service and went to the Pacific, coming home meant getting a job at the Kings Park State Hospital and being part of the community. The town center for Matt was the American Legion Munro Post 944. He has spent a half century informing the town about the American Legion's accomplishments. His scripts have become the voice of the Veteran in this town. Match that with his years as editor of the State Hospital's newspaper and you have an individual who became a real town crier.
