

Neil A. Johnson, MBA

Mr. Johnson received his MBA from Columbia University. He is the President of Universal Photonics of Hicksville, New York. His company provides technically advanced surfacing material to precision optics, electronics and flat panel display industries worldwide.

He has been a member of the Kings Park School District Board for many years and is now its current president. Mr. Johnson is a community leader in supporting educational projects, especially in the field of the sciences.