

A 1988 graduate of Kings Park High School and a 1992 Maryland University alumnus, Terrence Noonan took on television as a career instead of law. This change brought nothing but success for Terrence.

He has been involved as a producer in several shows including Rosie O'Donnell, Living It Up With Ali and Jack, Life and Style, Eliminate, and the Montel Williams Show. He has worked with Mike Jerrick, Joliet Hoddy, Judge David Young, Chris Daughtry, Diane Sawyer and many more notables. These productions have taken him throughout the United States and Mexico.

Somehow he found the time to write. His first published book possessed a lengthy title "Starring You - an insiders guide to using television and media to launch your brand, your business, and your life".

His work ethic and training has provided him with four Emmys and a great deal of professional acclaim. Communicating with the entire public in the U.S. is what the effort is all about. Terrence Noonan says, "Winning 4 Emmy's is nice, but I want to be known as a good person. It's better to be a good person."
