

Tricia Foley

Tricia Foley attended St. Joseph's School in Kings Park and the Academy of Brentwood. After finishing a B.A. degree in Art History and Photography at State University College at Fredonia, she studied Interior Design at Parson's School of Design. She has worked in the design department of Bloomingdales and in magazine publishing as an Editor at House Beautiful, Home Magazine and Victoria Magazine.

She is currently a contributing editor for several national magazines, has published seven style books and currently has her own design business in New York City consulting on product development, retail and internal and editorial projects in the home design field.

Tricia has left her imprint at Bloomingdales, Macy's, Polo/Ralph Lauren, Colonial Williamsburg, Hallmark, Tuscan Square, and numerous magazines. Her work can be seen at the Gettysburg Battlefield, at County May, Ireland, at Deep Wells in St. James, Williamsburg, American Folk Arts Museum and right here in Kings Park. A talented lady leaving positive life qualities in her wake.